SELECTED DATA & AI PROJECTS

MENA Immigration Policy RAG Agent

June - September 2025

- Built an AI-assisted research tool to help users understand U.S. immigration policy affecting MENA populations, with a related Tableau view showing historical displacement trends for broader context.
- Developed Python backend logic and engineered a PostgreSQL database to organize policy and displacement data for retrieval, analysis, and visualization.
- Designed citation-based responses so users can trace policy answers back to the underlying source documents.

AI-Powered Job Matching Tool

April 2026 - Present

- Built a tool to compare online job postings against an applicant's resume and identify roles with stronger alignment.
- Developed a Python/Pandas workflow to structure job postings and resume information for role-matching analysis.
- Reduced manual review by filtering out low-alignment postings and surfacing stronger-fit opportunities.

AI-Powered Shopping Tool

May 2026 - Present

- Built an AI-assisted shopping tool that evaluates online products based on user-defined priorities instead of standard search filters.
- Developed a Python/LLM workflow to extract product details and convert unstructured descriptions into structured match scores.
- Applied a multi-criteria scoring model to balance tradeoffs such as price, brand, quality, and personal preference.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Center on Forced Displacement, Boston University

Summer 2025

Summer Intern

- Researched U.S. immigration policy and barriers related to naturalization, legal status, asylum, and documentation, and organized findings into standardized country, persona, and policy profiles.
- Organized qualitative migration records into structured datasets for comparative research and analysis.

Dugree

Summer 2024

Political Analyst Intern & Recruitment Lead

- Reviewed AI-assisted dialogues on sensitive global conflicts and identified biased or one-sided framing.
- Improved balance and neutrality by adding counterpoints, labeling examples for bias/clarity, and refining how sensitive topics were handled.
